HSE WARNS "EXPOSING UNTRAINED WORKERS TO ASBESTOS WILL BE PENALISED"

The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) is warning that firms failing to provide asbestos awareness training will be penalised. It added that "electrical contracting companies and other building and refurbishment trades must provide suitable asbestos awareness training to employees or face prosecution."

An electrical contractor was recently fined £3,000 and ordered to pay £2,757 in costs, by Magistrates for failing to ensure their employees had received asbestos awareness training and breaching Regulation 10(1)(a) of the Control of Asbestos Regulations 2006.

Speaking after the case the HSE inspector said: "the contractor should have known of the dangers and the legal requirement to give sufficient training to protect employees from exposure to asbestos."
